The diagram illustrates a multi-recipient TLS handshake. On the left, a vertical line represents the server. On the right, a vertical line represents the client. The handshake proceeds in parallel for multiple recipients:

- Top Recipient: The server sends a BYE message, and the client responds with an AA1 message.
- Bottom Recipient: The server sends a BYE message, and the client responds with an AA2 message.
- Aggregation: The AA1 and AA2 messages from the clients are combined into a single AA3 message, which is then sent back to the server.
